Bijou Hotel
($119.00 single or double occupancy)

5 blocks to Convention Center
111 Mason Street

In San Francisco's Union Square neighborhood, the hotel is a block from the Cable Car Line and four blocks from Moscone Center. Guestrooms pay tribute to San Francisco's cinematic past with photos of historic movie palaces as decorative room accents. A double feature of San Francisco-based films is screened each evening in the hotel's own Petit Theatre Bijou.

Cartwright Hotel
($129.00 single or double occupancy)

5 blocks to Convention Center
524 Sutter Street

This 1913 boutique hotel was completely renovated in 2004. The cable car is outside the door and the theater district is just a three-block walk. A deluxe complimentary Continental breakfast bar buffet is offered in the morning and coffee and tea are available 24 hours a day. The afternoon brings freshly baked cookies and the evening a wine hour

Commodore Hotel

($129.00 single or double occupancy)

7 blocks to Convention Center

825 Sutter Street

One of Joie de Vivre's cheeky boutique hotels, the Commodore attracts international travelers who appreciate value and the staff's knowledge (they have penned their own guide to the city's hidden treasures). Guests can spin a giant wheel for sightseeing suggestions. Over breakfast at the Canteen Restaurant or a martini in the Red Room, Europeans mingle with musicians, roadies, and young trendsetters.

Courtyard by Marriott

($219.00 single or double occupancy)

3 blocks to convention center

299 Second Street

In the heart of San Francisco's South of Market Multimedia Gulch, the hotel is located within walking distance to Moscone Convention Center and Union Square. The hotel provides additional services to your typical Courtyard experience: bellman and concierge services, valet parking, and a dining room serving breakfast.

Diva Hotel

($139.00 single or double occupancy)

4 blocks to Convention Center

440 Geary Street

Hotel Diva is in the hub of Union Square, surrounded by San Francisco's best shopping, theatres, and just a couple of blocks from Moscone Convention Center, Chinatown, and the Embarcadero. Hotel Diva . . . it's no wonder Interiors Magazine voted it Best Hotel Design. It was the first hotel in San Francisco that dared to be different, the first to test the waters, with its ultra-modern design and stainless steel appeal.

Galleria Park Hotel

($169.00 single or double occupancy)

5 blocks to convention center

191 Sutter Street

The 177-room Galleria Park Hotel was formerly the landmark Sutter Hotel, built in 1911. Completely renovated and renamed in 1984, this sumptuous downtown hotel combines the best of the old world with the comforts and highly personal service you expect from a boutique hotel. Global conventions and exhibitions come to downtown San Francisco year-round. Moscone Convention Center, the new Yerba Buena Gardens Museum and Entertainment Complex, and the world-famous SFMOMA are located just a short walk from our boutique hotel. Whether you are attending an event at Moscone Center, or simply enjoying the surrounding museums and attractions, the boutique Galleria Park Hotel will provide calm and comfort within blocks of your downtown destination.
